Less is More When Using the Address Search

Updated August 2018

When it comes to searching for property by address, less is truly more. Here are some ways to increase the accuracy of your search results:

1. Always enter the house number into the House # Field.

Always enter the house number into the House # field in both the From and To fields. Only use different numbers in the From and To fields (i.e. 2000-3000) if you need to search a range of addresses on a specific street.

2. Use Begins With, Contains, or Ends With.

If there's a possibility that a street could have multiple spellings, use Begins with, Contains, or Ends with along with a portion of the street name.

3. Do not include the Street Direction or Suffix in your search criteria.

Although the listing agent is required to enter the Street Direction and Suffix for every listing that has one as part of the address; do not include the Street Direction or Suffix in your search criteria in case these were omitted by the listing agent.

The screenshot shows the 'Address Search' form. On the left, there is a 'Find Listings' section with instructions and a tip. The main form contains several fields: 'House #' with 'From' and 'To' sub-fields (highlighted with a red box), 'Street Direction' (a 'Select' dropdown), 'Street Name' with a 'Begins with' dropdown (highlighted with a red box) and an 'Ex. Main' text field, 'Suffix' (a 'Select' dropdown), 'Unit #' (a text field), 'Post Direction' (a 'Select' dropdown), 'County' (a 'Select' dropdown), 'City' (a 'Select' dropdown), 'State' (a 'Select' dropdown), and 'Postal Code' (a text field with 'Ex. 59901'). A 'SHOW MORE' link is located below the form fields. At the bottom right, there is a blue 'SEARCH' button (highlighted with a red box).

No other criteria is necessary or recommended unless you are searching for a property on a main street or a lakeshore that may span several counties. In the case of a very common street name, use the County field to reduce the number of listings in your search results.
